1. On 9 December the Canton Public Safety Bureau called a meeting of all owners of radio receiving sets. Attendance at the meeting was compulsory.
2. The following regulations were announced at the meeting:
 - a. Each radio owner must register his name, address, occupation, and type of radio with the Public Safety Bureau immediately.
 - b. The Public Safety Bureau will then issue a certificate of ownership to each radio owner.
 - c. All radio and electrical supply companies in Canton must register with the Public Safety Bureau all radios and supplies on hand. They must submit daily to the Bureau a list of all items sold, with the name, address, and occupation of the purchaser. They must also report the arrival of all new radio and electrical supplies. A certificate of ownership must be obtained from the Bureau by any purchaser before he acquires a new radio set.
 - d. Any person in Canton found in possession of a radio without proper authorization by the Public Safety Bureau will be prosecuted for concealing communications materials. Any radio company found guilty of illegal sales will be punished.
 - e. Transfer of a radio from one person to another must be reported to the Public Safety Bureau and appropriate changes must be made on the certificate of ownership.

This document is hereby regraded to CONFIDENTIAL in accordance with the letter of 16 October 1978 from the Director of Central Intelligence to the Archivist of the United States.
